BONANZA'S POLICY REGARDING MINING

THE BONANZA is gradually but steadily amplifying its news service as respects the mines of the Tonopah district and with intent to publish nothing but the actual facts, uncolored by optimism or favoritism, and the assistance given by mine managers and others is greatly appreciated. This paper realizes that great harm may result through inaccuracy and misrepresentation, but assumes that much good to the companies themselves and to their shareholders as well as to the business men and those employed in the district, will arise from a full, free, frank statement of all conditions, whether they be favorable or otherwise. It would be difficult, however, to publish a veritable item at this time that would be unfavorable. Physical conditions are improving rapidly and surely, due to the manner in which development work is being carried ahead of the stopers, the improved milling facilities and the extension of the ore zone in both directions, with promise of very interesting discoveries beyond the present lateral lines before long, due to the intelligent effort that is being expended on the outside properties.

ADMINISTRATION ADMITS ITS FAILURE

CHAIRMAN SIMMONS of the senate finance committee denies that the treasury deficit amounts to $130,000,000, as has been stated, but boasts that it will not prove above $26,000,000. Even if the latter figures are correct, it is a very poor showing for an administration that had such excellent chances to distinguish itself in view of the fact that the United States is the only first-class power not at war and that its industries are, or should be, thriving as never before in the history of the country, because of the tremendous demands made upon our resources by the nations that have no time to produce for themselves. The administration has levied a burdensome war tax, which should almost alone pay the cost of government. Its other internal revenues have been augmented, except possibly those arising from the manufacture and sale of malt and spirituous liquors, while the import duties would scarcely have been affected in gross if it had not been for the reduction in tariffs made by this very self-same administration. But whether the deficit be $26,000,000 or $130,000,000, it should not exist at all, but a tidy balance should be shown on the black side of the ledger.

HISTORY BEING MADE IN THE STRAITS

DESPITE the fact that telegraph lines, cables and wireless telegraphy provide ample means for communication, the news from the Dardanelles is very inadequate, but sufficient information is given out to assure that this is the greatest bombardment of all history, with more in the balance than in any previous engagement. If the straits are forced and Constantinople falls, then the war practically ends, a war that has already cost approximately three-quarters of a million lives and billions of treasure. The opening of communication between the Mediterranean and the Black seas to the allies means that Germany cannot possibly prolong the war to its own advantage and peace will be hastily sued for. Forts have been demolished, battleships have gone down. The roar of artillery has been constant and cumulative, yet the issue still appears to be in doubt. If the remnants of the greatest sea force ever assembled succeeds in opening the dual doors of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus it will be the greatest achievement in the annals of naval warfare and one that has had the greatest bearing on the future of nations. More decisive and ample information is demanded by a world that is almost breathless in anticipation.

THE PRIVILEGE OF NEWSPAPERS

UNLESS matter is obscene or libelous, newspapers should be allowed and have the right to publish anything they please and be protected in publishing it," declared Judge Carter, before the Chicago Press club. "Ordinarily, the attempt to censor or attempt to suppress publication produces the very state which the censorship sought to obviate. Light is the best policeman. The newspaper is one of the chief means of educating the people. All who can read turn to the newspaper; many read nothing else."

A FEW ACCOMPLISHMENTS

THERE has not been sufficient time yet to make an analysis of the doings of the twenty-seventh session of the Nevada legislature, but from a cursory survey of its accomplishments it is indicated that Reno got its divorce bill, Senators Buol and Arnold got their pari-mutuels and gambling measures, respectively, Assemblyman Pitt got the sting taken out of the Tax Commission and Warden Dickerson got his.—Carson Appeal.

They do business in Arkansas different from the way they don't do it in Nevada. There were eleven bank failures in this state in one year when the false boom collapsed, yet not a single official was clapped into jail, while down in Arkansas the doors were scarcely locked on a defunct banking institution before the president received a term in prison because his institution received deposits after it was known to be insolvent.

The state superintendent of insurance of Illinois has revoked the license of eleven fire insurance companies doing business in that state because they failed to file and publish their annual statements. There are a number of foreign corporations doing business in Nevada that are hereby warned that the booby man may get them also if they don't look out.

The ubiquitous individual with the champagne thirst and the beer income need not "bibble" over the news from Europe that bubbles will be scarce and higher in price due to the impossibility to harvest the grape crop and convert it into joy water because of the war.

WEEK'S DEVELOPMENTS CALL FORTH OPTIMISM

general average for the year thus far, and this is in the face of the announcement made by the Bonanza that the companies had informed it that they contemplated reducing their headings and, if economy warranted, the tonnage also. Silver, at the quotation of date under which this article is written, is quoted at 50½, while on January 1 it was 48½.

Six mine operators, constituting practically all of those who are out-putting ore, were asked as to the tonnage and valuation of ore in sight. The replies were, as might have been expected, somewhat vague, due largely to lack of incentive to make three exposures, two being all that are deemed necessary for practical work. It may be computed, however, that the stopes contain at least 15 per cent more ore than on January 1, for, while the extraction of ore has been but slightly increased, the development has proceeded under strong pressure, in view of the assurance of betterment in the price of silver. According to figures of the Western Federation of Miners, which represent 38 per cent of the working force of the camp, there are 1510 men employed in all capacities in the mines, mills and offices, while in January the number fell at one time to 1278. There are now a number of idle men in the district and those seeking work would be well to keep away.

the East End dropping into trachyte at the opposite portion of the district, with the Midway sinking through stringers, the Cash Boy showing sulphides, the Merger producing, the Belmont taking ore from over 30 faces, the Montana developing on three levels, the Victor unwatering, the West End running like an eight day clock, the Jim Butler increasing its output, the North Star about to re-enter the shipping list and the Extension preparing to cut the ledge from the deepest station on its incline, while the big Tonopah of Nevada is keeping its mill rumbling and its reserves far in advance, it is little wonder that one reaches for the in-put of optimism when essaying to write a brief review of the developments of the week.

HIDDEN TREASURE FOUND WHILE DIGGING TRENCHES

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, March 24.—The continual upheaval of earth in the war of trenches is bringing many hidden treasures to light. A French reservist uncovered a package of bonds worth a hundred thousand francs ($19,300), which he promptly handed over to his officer.

French, English and German coins to the value of $400 were unearthed in a trench near La Bassee by an English officer. Another found a gold carved necklace of the seventeenth century.
